Assignment: Set up Adobe Connect on Your Computer
Dr. William L. Honig

Adobe Connect
Adobe Connect is Loyola’s online tool for classes and meetings. You can set it up on your own computer. General information on Adobe Connect at LUC is at this link (see it for help, problems, more information) http://www.luc.edu/itrs/teachingwithtechnology/adobe-connect.shtml

Requirements
1. On the computer you want to use for the course work
   a. You will need a headset. The built in microphone on your computer will not work – it will cause feedback to others.
   b. If you need to, install a headset for your computer. You need one with a separate microphone and ear piece(s). Ear piece with separate mic is MANDATORY. You may be able to use the same one you have for your mobile phone (Bluetooth or wired) or your music player as long as it has a mic and earphone(s).
   c. If you have a built in or separate web cam, you can use it for the course too. If necessary make sure it is installed and working. Web cam is OPTIONAL.
2. Get set up to use Adobe Connect on your computer
   a. Go to this site and run the test
      c. You will probably have to install the add in
      d. If you have problems, see the troubleshooting hints on that page.
      e. Run the test again until everything passes.
2. Take a screen shot of the page showing that you have passed the connection diagnostic
   a. If you need help in doing a screen shot
   b. http://take-a-screenshot.org/
   c. Put your screen shot in a text document

What to Turn In Turn in a screen shot of the Adobe Connect Connection Diagnostic page showing you have passed. Submit the screen shot in a text document. Full points if you pass the connection diagnostic and turn it in correctly.

Version 2.0 (updated for new version of Connect and Sakai) Summer 2013